

EDWARD T. STRONG HOUSE

FLINT

Total Rehab. Investment: $196,000
Indirect Impact: $223,440
Total Economic Impact: $419,440

Built in 1930 by Edward T. Strong, then president of the Buick Motor Division and a vice-president of General Motors Corporation, this Mediterranean Revival-style house was designed by Joseph M. Savage. In preserving the property the current owner, assisted by state historic preservation tax credits, removed and reinstalled the red tile roof to replace sheathing, flashing, and damaged tile to prevent water from entering the building and damaging interior finish materials.
